Sense of belonging

SID:1930716 YU CHIAO KUO

There is a Chinese poem talked about the sense of belonging. It wrote by a poet named Qi Ji Xin. The poem is talking about the poet tried to find the person he loved thousands of times over the crowd, but all of a sudden he turned back, the loved one was just there where the lights were dim. I think this poem inspired me to create a story to talk about the sense of belongs. It is a feeling that you won't notice easily but it exists in the place that you seldom pay attention to. I want to create a story about the character is pursuing a sense of belongs so hard, and eventually, he realized that it actually exists around him.

In this module, I want to focus on elevating my drawing skills and find my own style. Also, I want to create characters that are more childlike and maybe an animal character. I will begin my project by drawing a lot of natural creatures and will learn to control the color palette. I also want to explore how to draw in mixed material and I will try to explore by drawing the same scene in different materials. Furthermore, I will try to modify my storyboard and learn how to make the story more interesting by using different perspectives.

To sum up, my aim in this module is to draw as much as I can and I want to create my own color palette. I expected I can have a more complex story than last time but can still deliver the subject clearly.
