Memories in summertime

In the summertime, I went back my home country and the life back in my hometown really inspired me a lot.

I got some inspirations about my life experience in Taiwan and want to develop them into projects. Such as the experience about me found a newborn baby bird in the garden, and my family's reaction about it. The experience let me want to explore how people with different values can be touched and changed their thoughts to respect animals' life.

Reviewing my summer projects, I got many feedbacks about my tone, color, and light in drawings. That makes me want to experiment and practice more to enhance my skill. Therefore, I will not rush at finish the final art pieces, but to try more combination of techniques and think more about color design in picture. I want to develop more before I made the final artwork.

During my experiment of varied materials, I will keep working on the development of my stories. I will also be trying to keep a project developing journal to record all the thoughts I have. I am expecting to find more inspirations in it.
